A detailed architectural rendering of a modern residential unit, Unit A1. The space is characterized by clean lines and a neutral color palette. On the left, a long wall features a built-in white shelving unit. The floor is made of light-colored wooden planks. In the center, a dining area is visible with a dark table and white chairs. To the right, a glass partition separates the dining area from a living area. The living area includes a dark sofa and a large window that allows natural light to enter. The overall design is minimalist and functional.
